

ICC Permanent Premises wins NEC Large Project of the Year Award

The ICC Permanent Premises Project has won the award for the NEC Contracts Large Project of the Year 2015. The Winners for these international awards were announced on Monday 20th April 2015 at the closing of the NEC Annual Seminar in London.

The theme for the awards was collaboration using NEC3 contracts with particular emphasis and how all parties involved act in a spirit of mutual trust and co-operation. This success recognised the result of the excellent collaboration between the ICC (Client), Courtys (General Contractor) and Brink Groep (Project Manager).

The judges' panel on their comments for the ICC Permanent Premises mentioned that "the focus was placed on achieving mutual benefits through opportunity workshops and best value for money solutions, which generated trust between the parties. The project team also took an important leap of faith in using an NEC3 target contract for this major project in the Netherlands, in order to support the collaboration strategy".

As well as winning the award for the Large Project of the Year, the ICC Permanent Premises also received Highly Commended (runner up) for the NEC Client of the Year 2015.
